LANDSCAPE-PHOTOGRAPHY

The following article was written by one of our local artists, Vivian Akers and appeared in the September number of the Photo-Era. The article was accompanied by a number of Mr. Akers' photographs, several being taken by the Pride meadow brook, near the Seltz farm and near W. F. Jones' residence.

To tell of objects of art, and of the emotions produced by them through vision, as felt by those sensitive in such matters, is not an easy task. Vision is an indescribable experience at best, and to present facts of artistic vision or visual sensitiveness with words, should be attempted only by one skilled in the use and value of words and phrases. Much less should such a one attempt to tell others how such facts may be achieved by photography.

Because I experience such facts in everyday life in looking over my current art-magazines, photographic monthlies, drawings, paintings and sketches of friends, and because I am myself a critic in things artistic that my own photographs of native landscape possess something of pictorial merit, I am glad if I may contribute something which may by chance arouse enthusiasm and encourage others. Let me address this article to the younger enthusiasts and students of photography who have had neither extensive opportunities to study nor have possessed the best in the way of apparatus and equipment, but who love to see a beautiful print and who feel the meaning of a simple and delightful composition, though they may not know why or even dream of the idea the artist had when it was made. I would ask earnestly the attention of those who see nature often and understand her moods, and of those who feel it to be a part of their nature to reproduce emotions through artistic photography.

Interest is always attached to the equipment of the pictorial worker, and I am only too glad to admit the meagerness of my outfit, because it may encourage others who, like myself, cannot possess just the camera and lenses desired. Equipment is not so much a matter of materials in art as it is a matter of mind. I have seen very unusual landscape-work made with the smaller Brownie cameras. The secret is to find the exact moment when earth and sky express a sublime degree of significance and an exposure suited exactly to the existing conditions. These instances, must admit, were chance ones, and the average of such work would be far too low for any one who was really interested in landscape-photography. But because I have always used a 3-A Folding Brownie for my camera, I would recommend it heartily as being well suited for a work such as my own. It has made good. The equipment, I would say, is, first, a mind searching continually for beauty; and, second, a knowledge of the medium of expression. What one would call a necessary equipment, another might call a big and cumbersome outfit. I can do no better than to explain my own method of working. I know well that others will find good grounds to criticize me for using such scanty equipment when so many excellent lenses and cameras are so easily available. When I start away for a day's trip, I prefer to "go light," as I do not wish to become tired and fagged by a heavy load. I want all my strength to cover ground and to keep a keen and sensitive eye fresh for everything I meet on the road.

My exposures vary a great deal. Experience has taught me that the use of different filters so changes the time that memory of previous conditions is a very uncertain guide; hence, to avoid too much uncertainty, I record each exposure by making a rough table which governs a variety of conditions, and this I carry in my pocket for reference in case I do not remember what exposure K1 or K3 filter requires with different stops. This table is very general, as it is based upon the quality of negatives made previously and would be of little use to any one but myself. Perhaps my desire to make a large collection of cloud-studies has made it a practice with me to go out only when there is a beautiful sky. This, too, may be the reason why I always use a color-filter of some kind to impart interest to my skies. It may be only the clear, transparent, cloudless blue at times; but to give this unbroken area interest, it is to any degree, one must use filter of the right kind.

The secret of beautiful landscape lies in the harmonious selection of such groups of trees and natural features that will form an arrangement with the sky at your disposal. Often, one must travel many miles afoot to reach some remote group of trees which, by their character or position, suggest an idea of composition. I have seen a frozen lake, time and time again, to get a rugged, pine-clad point against a certain cloud-mass; perhaps, to get there too late to have my picture include the cloud which had advanced far overhead; or, perhaps, to have the sky condensed before I reached the spot and take away, for the remainder of the afternoon, the sunlight which I wished to have included as light and shadows in the sculptured snow beneath the trees. My desire to have this interest, above the horizon, has made me unfit for work at my studio whenever the day begins with a sky full of clouds. I want to be off and away, and unless my work is of a very urgent nature, I cannot resist. Fortunately for me, such days do not come too often, else I would need financial aid to obtain my bread and butter and to secure shelter.

You will ask, "Where can I find subjects of sufficient interest for me to stop and photograph them?" That must be answered by the individual according to the ideas he may possess and which he has gained from his visual experience in having received artistic beauty and harmony through the works of others, or in his direct sensitiveness to nature. My own environment is lacking conspicuously in natural features which would invite the painter as a sketching ground. It consists of meadows, streams, picturesque old buildings or old and stately trees; yet it has a very likable variety of commonplace New England features, such as a lake, a meadow brook, and some rolling upland-pasture lands. My picture, if pictures they be, may be duplicated and improved upon by anyone who will search for beauty beyond the walls of the city. They are what I find near at hand and within walking distance.

I would say, however, that to escape the commonplace one must first see his picture in his mind's eye before he makes his exposures, otherwise he will be wasting good material for nothing. Every time I study the little finder on my 3A for the exposure I am about to make, I see it as a painting in full color, glowing with all the beauty of a masterpiece in a museum of art. I imagine it a work of importance, and search eagerly for the balance of masses, rhythm of lines, concentration of light, and simplicity of subject and, above all, the avoidance of squares in the corners. Perhaps, having soft focus eyes has given me an ability to see masses without the confusion of their detail. I know I am much blessed with this slight near-sightedness, for it enables me to see as the painter does by half closing his eyes to establish the big masses and values before him. For, after all, a photograph can have no emotional appeal when it is filled with confusing detail. Those having less of the painter in them will see other and different things; but without some big guiding desire, a beautiful print will only be accidental.

With a pocket full of exposed films, and about to enter the darkroom on my return home, I experience an indescribable sensation. Usually, there are some good pictures; occasionally none at all worth the time and money spent for materials; and again, when you view your film after it has fixed to transparency, you will see in your very hands the composition you were after. It is then—if you are like me—that you will have a feeling of joy which is akin to the joy you will have when you find the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow.

Prints on different papers follow the drying of the films, and, nearly always, I find the softest paper to be the one that gives me the closest resemblance to the original scene. Prints on buff papers seem to be a considerable improvement in degree; but you will soon learn that, unless the negative has a very long range of values and is fairly strong, it will be better judgement to use white stocks. Then follow enlargements on the bromide papers with the soft-focus lens, varying the diffusion as seems best to produce the quality which best expresses the idea I had at the beginning. Let me say here that in the enlarging of your prints you will have more opportunity to study the real value of your negative than at any other stage of the work. Of course, the whole joy cannot be realized unless you have had in mind a final statement in gum. Enlarged negatives follow, and you have finally a print framed, and hang it as a neutral-gray wall, where it silently tells others of beauty seen and patience exercised to bring that very beauty to their attention. No; I will not say "to their attention," for you, yourself, have gained far more than the other fellow.

As to methods of making prints and enlargements, follow what you consider to be the most beautiful example of photographic workmanship you have ever seen. Aim to duplicate it in perfection and surpass it if you can; but be sure that it does express what has appealed to you as the highest art of all your visual experience. There is a living painter whose work I seem to enjoy better than that of any other, and I have always in mind the few of his pictures that I have been privileged to see; but I am ever telling myself that it would never do to copy his composition, or to try to produce photographs which would bear a resemblance to his work. I must find my own. What he has done for me by way of pointing out the beauty of the commonplace is his contribution to the general store of visual experience which I have had, and I must take him as an example and contribute something from my own ideas and my own locality. This is the spirit that produces an inexhaustible supply of incentive.

Magazine Editor's Comment

The seven pictures of natural scenery by V. Akers of Norway, are the work of a professional landscape-painter, like William S. Davis, whose natural taste and professional training enable him to discover and appropriate the pictorial elements of the scene. Very naturally, too, he will avoid the mistake made frequently by camerists to introduce an excess of material or to divide the interest. It is interesting to note how the photographer discriminates in his choice of pictorial themes and with what facility he obtains his proportions. That Mr. Akers is a capital photographer needs no argument. He evidently realizes how closely pictorial photography is allied to painting, and that the excellence of the result is in proportion to the skill and judgement exercised in the use of brush and palette and of lens and printing-medium.

HARKEN BACK ON THE PAST

Twenty-four Years Ago This Week They put on more cutters at the shoe factory. This indicates an increase of business soon.

There was a big frost Wednesday morning, which did considerable damage to late garden crops.

Mark P., son of Howard D. Smith, fell in his barn Monday forenoon, breaking the middle finger of his right hand.

Improvements are being made this week at the fair grounds. The land on the interior of the track has been plowed and well leveled up, probably for the benefit of the base ball players.

James Shedd shot a bird of the stork species a few days ago out on the meadow near the Rumford road, which measured five feet from tip to tip of wing and stood four feet, four inches high.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Witherell visited at C. B. Cummings' last week. Mr. Witherell was formerly superintendent of B. F. Spinney & Co's shoe factory here and was unusually popular with all our towns people.

Otis Morgan, who was seriously injured by falling from a bicycle into a pile of wood, was out for the first time, Tuesday. He is improving rapidly now.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thibodeau left Saturday after a pleasant two weeks' visit with relatives here, for Portland, where they visited with Mrs. Thibodeau's sister a few days, returned to Medford, Mass., Sunday.

Mrs. Lester Cowan of Portland spent a few days last of the week with Dr. B. F. Bradbury.

The George Wilkins place on Beal street, owned by Harry Brown of North Waterford, has been sold by the John Woodman Agency to F. A. Whittemore of South Paris. Mr. Whittemore will continue to rent the place.

Clinton Masaseck and daughter, Ruth, have been spending a week with Mrs. Alice Danforth. From here they went to the Weirs, N. H., for a few days before returning to Junction City, Kansas, where they have apartments. Mrs. Masaseck is located nearby at Camp Funston.

George M. Atwood of Paris and E. L. Stetson of Dixfield, have been nominated Notary Public.

Hudson Prices Stand 51 Cars Advance

The materials for this year's production of the Hudson Super-Six were bought last year when most items cost less than half the present prices.

Other makers were not so fortunate. They have exhausted their supply of materials bought in the lower material market. Since January 1st, 51 makers have advanced their prices. Some have made two advances. Advances have ranged from $100 to $700. On cars that formerly sold at $1200 to $1400, the increase has been $200 to $300. That has made them cost now as much as a Hudson Super-Six.

There are almost 40,000 owners of Hudson Super-Sixes. Now that cars which sold from $1200 to $1400 cost as much as a Hudson Super-Six, preference for it is greater than ever. When materials bought last year are exhausted, then the Super-Six must cost more. Judged by the advances made on former cheaper cars, the Super-Six should cost above $2000. See the advantage of buying one now at $1650.

BIG BARN DOOR SKETCHES

Visit to Sandwich, Moultonboro Neck, Long Island and Return to Norway, Maine, Closing Seven Weeks of Idleness.

Sunday, Sept. 2nd, Walter and Mother permitted me to return to Norway. Twenty miles of cross country roads were bad. Five miles between Fryeburg and Bridgton is the worst of anything encountered.

There are many fields and meadows with grass uncut; corn is looking nicely, rust visible on some pieces of potatoes and beans. Apple crop very small. Rochester Fair signs, Sept. 25-28 everywhere seen.

Center Sandwich is the largest collection of houses in town and has a five point road crossing, store, postoffice, ice cream parlor, etc. Here Sam Wentworth remembered the home of his youth by giving a public library. Whether his brother, "Long John," assisted I cannot say, but presume not as I have understood his young wife objected to his bestowing any portion of his millions for charity lest she should come to want.

I was told that during the summer the library was open to the public every Wednesday afternoon. My visit was on Tuesday and unfortunately I did not see the thousands of books contained within its walls. The outside of the building is showy and leads strangers to ask questions and serves well the purpose of keeping alive the name of Wentworth in this vicinity.

Sandwich Lower Corners is about 4 miles from the State Road at Moultonboro Corner. A store and postoffice is confined in a brick building nearly opposite the late home of Hon. Isaac Adams, inventor of Adams' Power Printing Press and other useful things. His neighbors of forty years ago say Uncle Isaac took kindly to squandering money in the innocent amusement of farming, tree planting and the placing of costly statuary in field and pasture. Some of the collection of Art yet remains and assisted me in recognizing the place. His sons, Aquilla and Duward Adams, now live in town, both well advanced in age.

Geo. Sanborn Hoyt was finishing haying and I found him pitching hay into dark place under the eaves in the barn. Somebody was pulling it in and treading it down and I took him to be a grandson. The barn was crowded with hay and a few more loads had got to be got in. Where it was to be put I can't say.

Forty-one years last June George and I spoke our pieces and took diplomas from the New Hampton Institution of Learning. I do not recall seeing him since, however, he says he met me in Laconia a few years later. I suppose his diploma decorates the wall in the best room.

The old home of Mrs. Clarence Burleigh of Augusta, Me. was six miles from here and as it was getting late and I concluded not to call on the Quimby's of North Sandwich.

From the State road in Moultonboro to Dr. Greene's imposing gate on Long Island is 7.4 miles. The road runs over all the hills on the Neck and there are many. It is narrow and winding and the occasional view is magnificent. The farms are old and poor and many of the orchards are ruined by moth pests. Summer visitors were everywhere present and is evidently the only tax paying crop raised and why they should be there is more than I can understand.

Dr. Frank C. Greene of Nevada Fame owns a large part of the Island. This I did not inspect as the land entrance is too imposing and I felt that I might be intruding. Roxmont farm is where the doctor squandered wealth for the fun of doing something. The doctor died last winter and whether the estate will be kept up I do not know. Many camps and summer homes are in evidence judging from the array of mail boxes at cross roads. A nearby summer school for boys has a herd of 16 cows and you can guess as to the number they can feed.

I was not favorably impressed with farming conditions on Moultonboro Neck and the number of signs indicating "Private Property" was depressing. The Barn Doors were reached by night-fall and I'm wondering what Long Island is good for anyhow now that Dr. F. C. Greene has gone.

Have seen several New Darham College diplomas in best rooms of New Hampshire farm houses. Inquiry usually brings the reply:

"My son is in the city and is doing well."

The other day I saw two such exhibits in a Sanborn home and was surprised to be told that one of the boys was working out in the field.

The other was doing well teaching in New York and came home occasionally to sleep in the canopy-topped bed—a regular Neapolitan-Martha-Washington affair—the like of which I never saw before.

I felt like taking off my hat "to the boy in the field."

Here is a true story: John Lang Swain who lived by the Bay once set a trap to catch a bear. One morning he discovered an infuriated bear dragging the trap about in the bush.

Mr. Swain lacked suitable artillery for such game and called on a neighbor for assistance. He cautioned Bro. Perkins to be steady of hand and sure of his aim. When the Queen's Arm spoke it did deadly work.

On getting to the animal Bro. Swain found he had caused the death of his own dog.

Moral: Know what you aim at before firing.

Frank C. Seymour touched me for a dinner the last time I was in the city. He had come in from Warner, N. H., 32 miles, and he said he got two "drags" on the way. It had been raining and he was wet and hungry. A fifty-cent steak and three sandwiches. The latter to tide him along on his next day's tramp up the line in quest of work. It cost me 75 cents, but how could I do different? He is human and useful and a printer seeking a permanent job.

Later: He reached Norway in due time and gently intimated I sent him to help through Cattle Fair. He failed to make the office so I understand it and visited the Oxford Democrat and passed on looking for permanent work.

The farmer hereabouts has too much scientific State paid knowledge. He should know less and work more.

I'm called "a proud old guy who wants to spread his picture broad-cast because he thinks he is so pretty." Will you have one?

Where have potato balls gone? None on the farm and I haven't seen one for years. Have you? John Roberts and Andrew Felker may be able to tell I can't.

One sulphur match will do the work of five of "the strike-anywhere non-poisonous kind." Give it a try. Give it a try. It is safe and sure and keeps the itch away.

The I. W. W.'s are professional disturbers and should be eradicated and eliminated. This is what the government has started to do and may the good work go on.

"It removes a poison from the reach of children in the American Home." Just think of it! Paris Green and arsenic of lead everywhere but a sure-burn, innocent, old fashioned eight-day brimstone match is legislated out of existence. Why? The Diamond Match Co. can tell you.

I once attempted to climb a tree. It was many years ago. There were three small ones that grew together near the ground. I selected the middle tree and shinned up some ways and finally slipped back and both knees were caught as in a vice from which I could not get. I'd been there now had not my bellowing raised the neighbors. For years I felt greatly humiliated over the affair.

"Just think of it! Something terrible! Only 8 of the Second Regiment boys here up to now!" said Col. M. A. Haynes on Wednesday night of the Veterans Reunion at the Weirs. "It's like traveling round in a graveyard, reading inscriptions on tombstones; I'm sick at heart and lonely; maybe more will come tomorrow." This was said in such real sorrow as to bring two tears to the eyes of the listeners. Surely most of "the boys" are now "on the other side resting in the shade of the trees."

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excitable; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions. It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol. © Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

HARRISON
Robert Heath whose home is in Waterford, but who has been working in this town the past year or two, and who enlisted this past summer in the 1st New Hampshire Heavy Artillery, has been honorably discharged on account of a nervous trouble, and returned here. Mr. Heath was transferred about the middle of August to the Engineers Corps of the Milliken Regiment, and has been stationed on Huntington Avenue in Boston since then. He says he was subjected to five very rigid examinations and then rejected and sent home and is feeling very much disappointed in consequence. He returned Monday morning to the C. H. Hill Garage where he had been employed before enlisting, and expects to work there for a while at least. His many friends in town are glad to welcome him back.

Mrs. Clara Roes
Mrs. Clara Lowell, wife of George Roes passed away Sunday morning at her late home on Main street, at the age of sixty-six years, and seven months.

Mrs. Roes was a lady highly respected, and was a charter member of Woodland Rebekah Lodge, and in 1894 was made treasurer, serving eleven years, she was then elected vice Grand and Noble Grand after which she was re-elected as treasurer and served in that capacity until her death. She had also been a member of the Degree Staff ever since its organization. She will be greatly missed in the lodge room as well as in her home and elsewhere. The deceased is survived by a husband and four sisters.

The Value of a Good Stomach by Universal

The value of a good stomach is the road that leads to health. If your stomach is weak and your bowels are lazy you will soon find yourself troubled with Indigestion, Bilioussness, Headaches, Dizziness, Acute and Chronic Constipation. You are in need of a good and reliable Bowel Tonic, Laxative, Cathartic and Digestive Tablet. Universals appear upon many doctor's prescriptions for the above treatments. Bad Blood can ruin your complexion by causing Pimples, Boils, and other Skin Troubles. They can be removed with the aid of "Universals" and once more produce a clear and smooth skin. Universals can be obtained at all retail druggists.

We can now supply you with Guns, Rifles, Cartridges, and Hunting Goods of all kinds

This is our 27th year in business and we have always tried to give you a square deal.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE

WHEREAS, Ernest S. Bartlett, of Stoneham, by his mortgage dated August 23rd, 1905, and recorded in the Oxford County Registry of Deeds in Book 91, page 300, conveyed to me the undersigned, a certain parcel of real estate with the buildings thereon, situated in the said Stoneham, being all of that part of lot numbered three (3) in the first division and first range of lots in said Stoneham, which lies on the West side of the road leading from the turn near the Levi McAllister place, so-called, to Ashbel G. Allen's in said Stoneham, except what was conveyed by Prudence E. Smith to Levi McAllister as recorded in Western Registry of Deeds, Book 101, page twenty-nine (29); and whereas condition of said mortgage has been broken;

Now, therefore, by reason of the breach of the condition thereof I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage. Dated at said Stoneham this twenty-fifth day of August A. D., 1917. 38-40

Charles S. Akers is the new shipping clerk at the Carroll, Jellerson Co. shoe factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace W. Sheen have their household goods nearly packed and go to their new home near Harrison Saturday. They have resided here many years, being prominent in the W. R. C., the Veranda Club, the I. O. O. F. and Pythian bodies.

Mrs. F. C. Smith and family arrived from Bar Harbor Wednesday to locate here. The family will occupy the George Wood house on Cottage street.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps will be held Thursday evening, Oct. 4, at 8 o'clock. Rehearsal of ritual will follow the business.

New cement steps and walk are being laid at the Baptist church. F. C. Smith is doing the work. Services were held there Sunday afternoon as usual. The congregation using a side door.

Crockett Ridge

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dinsmore took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Jackson. In the afternoon their daughter, Eleanor Augusta, entertained her cousins, Elizabeth and Alpheus Jackson and Dorothy Francis Millett. It was her sixth birthday and there were six candles on her birthday cake at tea-time, one for each little one to blow out. Her sister, Eva Marion, completed the number six at the small tea table. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Millett and Mrs. Harry Jackson and daughter Verna took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

On Wednesday the busy workers of Crockett Ridge and Millettville met at the Heywood Club House where they entertained delegates from other district clubs at a covered dish luncheon. Such surprises as came to view when the signal came to uncover. It would take too long a time to enumerate the variety of goodies displayed. Suffice it to say that great justice was done to it all. At three o'clock work was begun, such snip snapping and snap snapping and whirring of sewing machines for two hours and such clack-clacking of tongues. The most frequent expression was, "O, if that yarn would only come, I'm so tired of snipping we've been at it steadily all summer; we ought to have a change." But it was a success certainly, socially and in work accomplished, too. Those present were Mrs. Eric Cook, Mrs. M. E. Kimball, Mrs. Annie Brown, Mrs. Edith Knightley, Mrs. Minnie Haskell, Mrs. Ada Cox, Mrs. Geo. Hobbs, Mrs. Emma Packard, Mrs. Gertrude White, Mrs. Katherine Morrill, Mrs. Mary Millett, Mrs. Emma Dunham, Mrs. Florence Westleigh, Mrs. Ella Chase, Mrs. Alice Witham, Mrs. Emogene Loveloy, Mrs. Eva Richardson, Mrs. Sarah Farrum, Mrs. Fannie Dinsmore, Mrs. Addie Young, Mrs. Eva Jackson.

Ruth Holgate, the very successful teacher at Crockett Ridge School, held short Mothers' Meeting Wednesday afternoon to see about supplies for hot lunches; for it will soon be too cool for the delightful picnic dinners that she and her pupils have in the woods now. She was given full authority to purchase staple articles needed as cocoa, salt, sugar, crackers, etc. Later will come baked potatoes with cream, baked beans, macaroni, tomato steaks, etc., etc. Oh to be a child in these up-to-date schools is fine! Miss Holgate was delighted on coming back this term to see the new school steps and the big start in draining and grading the play ground where swings etc. are to be set up next spring. A work of the grateful parents.

Mrs. Phila Brooks Shedd
Mrs. Phila Brooks Shedd, who has been so very sick for the past seven weeks,
passed away at her home on Main street
Tuesday evening, about half past nine.
She was about 73 years of age. Mrs.
Shedd has been a great sufferer.

She was the daughter of Peter and Arvilla Brooks and was born in Woodstock.
Her husband, Levi P. Shedd, died last May and almost from the first she began to lose health. Their only son, Will Shedd and wife of Portland, came here several weeks ago and have given their whole care to her beside having other nurses to help.

She has been a very active woman during her life, belonging to the Eastern Star Rebekahs, Patrons of Husbandry,
W. C. T. U. and a member of the Universalist church. She will be greatly missed in all of these organizations.

She leaves besides the above mentioned son, two brothers, Prescott and Warren, and a sister, Mrs. Clara Ryder, all of West Paris, and one sister, Mrs. Christiana Swan of Bryant's Pond.

Ralph Dean has moved into Mrs. L. P.
Willis' upstairs rent.

OXFORD

George H. Parrott

On Friday, September 21st, occurred the death of George Johnson Parrott at his home, at the age of 82 years, 1 month and 27 days. Death was due to heart failure.

Mr. Parrott was born July 24, 1835 in Lynn, Mass., the son of James and Olive Damon Parrott. He was educated in the public schools of Lynn and came to Oxford in 1857 where he has since resided.
For fifty years Mr. Parrott was overseer in the Robinson mill.

On July 25, 1858 Mr. Parrott was united in marriage with Mary Sarah Robinson,
the daughter of Joseph and Frances Robinson, at Roxbury, Mass. Mrs. Parrott died May 14, 1905. Ten children were born to them, James E., who is overseer in the mill at Oxford; Elmer L., salesman in Portland; Mrs. Thomas Keenan of McDonald, Mass.; Albert E. of the Seacoast
Coal Company, Providence, R. I.;
Joseph R. who was president of the East Coast Railway in Florida, who died in October, 1913; George Fred, who died in 1888 and four other children who died in infancy. Mr. Parrott is survived by his four children and two sisters Sarah Ann and Jane Marshall, two brothers,
Peter and Charles S. Parrott, all of Lynn,
Mass., and eight grandchildren.

Mr. Parrott was a member of Oxford
Lodge, No. 13 B. and A. M., Royal Arch
Chapter of Norway, also Portland Community and Sons of Temperance. He was representative to the Legislature in 1903 and a member of the Republican
Town Committee for a number of years.
He has also held an office on the school board for many years, was trustee of the Congregational church, treasurer of the Sons of Temperance, treasurer of Riverside cemetery, and also chief engineer of the fire department.

The funeral was held Tuesday, Sept.
25, at the Congregational church, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Malcolm McKay. A male quartette from Lewiston rendered three selections, "He gives his beloved sleep," "One sweet solemn thought," and "Gathering Home." A Masonic funeral was held and the bearers were Howard Smith, George Hazen, Osgood Blake, and George Houghton.

The Sons of Temperance attended the funeral in a body. There was a very large display of floral tributes. Interment took place at the Riverside cemetry.

NORTH LOVELL

Will Sanborn of Stow is boarding at Perley McKee's while he is doing mason work for Clinton Milliken, who is building a bungalow for New York parties.

There are new seats being put in the school houses. Willis McAllister is the carpenter employed to do the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren McKee visited at Arthur Curtis at East Stoneham, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Harriman and two daughters of Norway spent the day with her father, Will Allen, at his cottage at Lake Kezar last Sunday.

Ada Andrews and Curtis Kimball are attending school at the Academy at Freyburg.

Mrs. Ella Mason
Mrs. Ella (Evans) Mason, wife of John
Q. Mason, passed to the higher life Sept.
13. She was a loving wife and mother, a kind and obliging neighbor and was loved and respected by all who knew her.
She was a member of the Christian church, a Rebekah and a member of the zar Lake Grange and did all that a worthy member could do to help these organizations until a severe illness left her an invalid. She has been a great sufferer, but has found rest at last.

She leaves a husband, two sons, Fred and Bert Mason, and one sister, Mrs.
Estelle McKee, and other relatives. The death of Mrs. Mason was regretted by her many friends. She was interred in the family lot in Pine Grove Cemetery.

NUX, IRON, PEPSIN
AND SARSAPARILLA

The combination of two great medicines, Hood's SARSAPARILLA and Peptonin, by taking them in conjunction, one before eating and the other after, brings into co-operation the above-named substances, best for the blood, nerves and digestive organs.

This combination is especially recommended in cases of nervousness, or rheumatic, anemic and scrofulous, or when the blood is both impure and pale, deficient in iron—one of the most common disease conditions of the present day.

In cases where a laxative is needed, Hood's Pills should be taken. They work in perfect harmony with Hood's SARSAPARILLA and Peptonin, and are mild and efficient.

South Paris

Rev. Lewis Stoughton of Alfred will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Paterson and daughters went to Lynn, Mass., Sept. 26. Their household goods had been shipped some time before, and they will make their home there as Mr. Paterson has a position with the General Electric Co.

Lafayette F. Dow, who graduated from Bowdoin this year, left Friday morning for West Newton, Mass., where he is to teach French and Latin in the Allen School, a private school for boys. He will also at the same time take post-graduate work at Harvard, leading to the degree of A. M.

Pupils enrolled in the Paris schools number 573 in the grades, divided as follows: South Paris, 312; West Paris, 95;
North Paris, 39; Paris Hill, 20; Rural, 107. South Paris High registers 75, of which 19 are freshmen; West Paris High has 44 with 13 freshmen.

Representatives of the Christian Civic League of Maine spoke in South Paris churches on Sunday. Edward H. Emery of Sanford was at the morning service at the Congregational church, Rev. W. F.
Berry of Waterville at the Baptist church and Rev. C. E. Owen of Waterville at the Universalist church. In the evening a meeting at the Methodist church was addressed by Mr. Owen and Mr. Emery.
All the speakers set forth the purposes of the league and solicited financial support for it.

Monday morning on an automobile trip to New York city, expecting to be gone
a week or ten days.

Twelve pupils of Mrs. Stella W. Burnham gave a piano recital at her home Saturday evening. The program was interesting and showed excellent work of both pupils and teacher. About sixty invited guests were present. Those who furnished the entertainment were Hester
Gray, Laura Brooks, Helen Smiley, Esther Tyler, Gladys Starbird, Hazel Abbott, Flora Brooks, Doris Graves, Eloise
Shaw, Gertrude Cushman, Minnie Keniston, Marion Hammond, Ruth Graves.

Clarence G. Morton is making considerable repairs and changes on the Stone

been removed and a larger one will be built. A fireplace will be put in, and some remodeling done in the interior of the house.

Herman Wilson, conductor on the branch is having his annual vacation this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Giles of Auburn have been in town for a short visit and Mr. Giles has been making some repairs in their house on Gothic street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Fletcher. Mr.
Giles and family have recently sold their farm in Auburn and purchased a bungal-ow on Gamage Avenue.

Mrs. T. S. Barnes and Mrs. D. M.
Stewart accompanied Mrs. James Oswell to Lewiston Friday and had the pleasure of seeing Sarah Bernhardt.

son, Mrs. J. H. Bean, Mrs. Clara Howard, Mrs. Fred Abbott, Mrs. Eva Talbot,
Mrs. Elmer Haggott, Belle G. Giddings, Mrs. E. F. Hicks, Anna Morse, Mrs. Will
Austin, Mrs. Kate Prescott and Mrs. W.
H. Jenne.

A rally was held at the Baptist church
Thursday evening. About 125 people sat down to a bountiful supper of baked beans, white and brown bread, pickles, fancy cakes and pies. An entertainment followed consisting of several selections by the choir. Talks by Frances McNeil of the Gordon Bible College. She gave a description of her work in Peru and Rev. Griffith, pastor of the Hebron Baptist church also gave an address. The entertainment was in charge of Rev. G.
H. Newton, pastor of the church. Music was furnished by Mrs. Maurice Noyes, Marie Newton and Ralph Edwards. Mrs.
Agnes Morton presided at the organ.

Grace Thayer and George R. Morton attended the funeral of Hon. Prentiss Cummings at Brookline, Mass., Sept. 20 and also the funeral service of Mrs. Laura Libby in the same place. Both were cousins and both deaths occurred the same day.

The following officers were elected at the Baptist Church annual business meeting:

WEST SUMNER

Sylvester Bisbee

News was received here Sunday of the death of Sylvester Bisbee, a resident of this town, who passed to the higher life at ten o'clock Saturday evening, Sept.
22 at the Maine General Hospital at Portland. He submitted to a surgical operation at that place six weeks ago. Mr.
Bisbee was gaining slowly and his relatives and friends were feeling greatly encouraged and expecting his recovery.
Friday, he was taken suddenly worse,
and failed gradually to the end.

Mr. Bisbee was born in Peru November 17, 1851, the son of Jones and Rebecca Robinson Bisbee. He was an inventor of considerable note, having invented and perfected many useful devices.

When he was a young man, Mr. Bisbee went West, where he married Ida Crandall. To them were born three sons:
Leroy Sylvester, Clinton Ward, Edwin
Jones, all of whom are living. Besides these three sons, Mr. Bisbee is survived by one brother, John Bisbee of Madelia, Minnesota.

It is certainly a mistake for autoists
to try so hard to bump railroad trains off the track.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Bryant-Herrick

Lester Dunham Bryant of Woodstock and Elsie Evelyn Herrick of Norway were united in marriage by Rev. E. L. Nichols at the Methodist parsonage, Saturday morning, Sept. 22.

The bride wore a blue poplin traveling suit with white hat and gloves, and were unattended. After the ceremony the couple went by auto to Portland and made a short call on a brother, Priv. Merton Herrick at the forts, then continued to parts not announced. On their return late in the week they are to open their cozy home in Bryant's Pond, which is all furnished.

Mrs. Bryant is the daughter of Chas. M. and Maule (Hemmingway) Herrick of Norway, formerly of Greenwood. The groom is the son of Horatio D. and Eva (Dunham) Bryant of Woodstock. He is an expert spool maker, having been permanently employed in the Dearborn factory for a long time. Both young people are highly respected and have the hearty congratulations of a wide circle of friends.

Gertrude Foster of North Bridgton was the guest of Anna M. Stone, Monday and Tuesday. Miss Foster has been enjoying a few days visit with friends in Bethel and vicinity.

George Bradbury and wife of Portland were in town several days last week, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Swain. An old fashioned husking bee with all the early year attachments was held Monday evening at the Millets in Millettville, the A. J. and F. L. Millets and Elmer Morrill families entertaining. A party of between 40 and 50 husked nearly 90 bushels of yellow corn for Mr. Morrill and about twice that amount for the Millets. The farmers' wives prepared a fine antiquarian supper that consisted of baked beans, brown bread, pumpkin and apple pies, doughnuts, cake and every good thing that made a spread of this kind a success in the days of our grandfathers. A social time followed until a late hour.

Douglas Farrar went to Madison, Monday. Mr. Farrar drives the delivery wagon for C. F. Ridlon and is having a two weeks' vacation.

A regular meeting of the Pythian Sisters will be held in K. of P. hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 2. An interesting program will follow the business session.

Arthur Descoeteau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Descoeteau, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the St. Marie's Hospital, Lewiston, Friday morning, Dr. Duchin being the surgeon. Mrs. Descoeteau is at the hospital during the operation and Mr. Descoeteau was with him Sunday. The patient is resting comfortably with every symptom favorable.

Timothy Healey's crew have finished the cement walk at the L. O. O. F. block and are well along with the sidewalk opposite Masonic block and other stretches on Cottage street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Herrick spent Sunday at Locke's Mills, their former home, visiting friends.

Edward Ross, a foreman in the shoe factory, has given up the Elgin Greenleaf rent and is at Beals Tavern. Mrs. Ross and daughter have returned to Boston for the winter.

Expert Carriage Painter

George H. Bennett opens the fall business with thirty sleighs and one auto for fresh varnish. Mr. Bennett is one of a few belonging to the old school, who started as apprentices in some country carriage making shop and followed the several departments right through. Forty-three years ago he left the home farm in North Bethel and hired out with Horace C. Andrews at Bethel Hill in his carriage shop on Mechanic street. He learned wood working and ironing, intending to become a shop foreman, and those days of hand labor carriages were shipped west and business rushing. Leaving Bethel in 1876, he started a manufactory in company with his brother at North Norway, where vehicles were made complete from raw material. Nineteen years ago construction was given up and Mr. Bennett erected a paint shop and home at 26 Whitman street, Norway Village, with Fred M. Davis, a workman of three years' experience, as assistant. Mr. Bennett specialized as decorator and being among the few who know the inner secrets of handling gold leaf.

Jack Vincent has returned and gone shoe making. He plans to settle here permanently.

Charles Prile is an expert with the hazel wood crocheted stick. He recently located a water vein on George Kennison's lot that sets off Pleasant street, where many supposed such fluid could not be found. George drove down ten feet and struck the spring of clear, cold water that promises a steady flow.

Hosmer Bros. have their new racing launch in the lake. This trim little boat has a 17 foot keel and 45 inch beam, carries a 22 H. P. Buick auto engine and pushes the launch over the pond at an 18 mile an hour clip. She is certainly a fleet craft and the three brothers, Ben, Henry and Bert, are proud of their skill, having produced this outfit at odd times, dividing the summer between boat building and the auto tire vulcanizing business.

Prof. J. H. Goupley of Durham, N. H., professor of horticulture in the New Hampshire State college; A. R. Jenks of Springfield, Mass., director of the Hampton County Farm League, located at Springfield; Prof. George A. Yeaton, director of farm demonstration in Oxford county; and Virgil A. Saunders of Wakefield, Mass., field agent for government crop reporting, have been visiting in the orchards in Oxford county and to study the methods used by Prof. Yeaton in his handling of the orchard pests. He was particularly interested in the way the dust method controlled the scab and fungus disease in the Chase orchard at Buckfield, as compared with the lime sulphur spray. Mr. Jenks was here in the interest of the horticulture and fruit department of the Eastern State exposition and dairy show to be held at Springfield, Mass. A trip was made to Buckfield, to call on W. H. Conant, president of the Maine Fruit Growers' Exchange.

Mr. Sheen has travelled over most of New England, inspecting farms from Vermont to Connecticut, but finally deciding the above Agency offered him the best farm bargain.

NOTICE TO SICK WOMEN

Positive Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieves Suffering.

Bridgeport, N.J.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for inflammation and other weaknesses. I was very irregular and would have terrible pains so that I could hardly take a step. Sometimes I would be so miserable that I could not sweep a room. I doctored part of the time but felt no change. I later took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt a change for the better. I took it until I was in good healthy condition. I recommend the Pinkham remedies to all women as I have used them with such good results."—Mrs. M. L. FORT, T. CUMMINGS, 322 Harmony St., Penn's Grove, N. J.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence of the excellence of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for distressing ills of women such as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, backache, painful periods, nervousness and kindred ailments.

A Few Reminders

If you are in the market to buy or sell any kind of Real Estate, I wish to offer you a few reminders—

FIRST—I deal exclusively in Real Estate, do nothing else, hence can give my undivided attention to your wants.

SECOND—I have unusual facilities for interesting, prospective customers, hence can get their attention where you would probably fail.

THIRD—Handling property of every description, I am constantly in touch with buyers and sellers of all kinds of property.

Take a chance. Come and see me, and see if I have not a customer for the very piece of property you wish to sell, or a piece of property that is just what you are looking for.

PUBLIC SAFETY MEASURES

To the Citizens of New England:

Coal is essential to the successful prosecution of the war. Every available pound can be put to use. It is the patriotic duty of every citizen to avoid waste of coal and to consider how his coal requirements can be reduced.

New England's particular is confronted by a most critical situation. Two-thirds of New England's coal supply normally comes by water. Many vessels engaged in carrying coal to New England ports have, however, already been taken by the Government, and more will have to be surrendered for Government service as the war goes on. Our railroads are now burdened to the limit of their capacity and cannot take care of the extra load thus thrown upon them. With these limitations upon our transportation facilities comes the greatest demand for coal ever known in New England. Under these circumstances every New England coal user must help.

The new England local committee asks all householders not to use coal for heating before the first of November, or after the first of May, unless the house temperature is below 60 degrees; to burn wood wherever possible; to use small oil heaters when it is necessary to keep certain parts of the house at a special temperature; to reduce the coal used in the stoves. Do your cooking at one part of the day. Use wood whenever you can; to be economical with gas; and with electricity, which is generated by coal-using plants. Turn off the house lights when not needed, if only for a few minutes.

It is asked that those who control office buildings, hotels, apartment houses, not use coal for heating before the first of November or after the first of May, unless the temperature of the building is below 60 degrees; not to heat buildings in excess of 65 degrees; to bank fires at all practicable times, and when building is to be only partially used to turn off coal wherever feasible. Business buildings not used after 6 p. m. should bank fires at 4 p. m.; to reduce to the barest necessities all illumination by gas or by coal-made electricity.

The times call for more than usual skill and care in putting coal into stoves and furnaces. Feed sparingly. Instructions are being prepared which will help you get the most heat out of your coal.

Seed Saving Campaign

The present good situation demands that farmers should save their own seed so far as possible this fall. There was a large demand for seed of all kinds last spring, and the replanting of many crops consumed an additional amount. The present season has not been a good one to mature crops in good condition and the prospects are that seed will not be available in sufficient quantities another spring unless some measures are taken immediately to increase the supply.

A farmer who has good seed of any kind should save at least enough for his own use and also some for sale to others.

Especially is there a need for good yellow corn, beans and wheat. Yellow corn of the eight-rowed type is to be preferred.

Beans rusting badly and seed free from the diseases will be much in demand another spring. Oats, as a general rule, are light in weight and large yields are not common. Anyone having a good supply of heavy oats of a good variety should consider saving a portion of them for seed.

There was a demand for buckwheat this spring which had to be filled from outside the state.

Many small potatoes and potatoes of inferior quality were planted last spring which practice ought not to be repeated again.

All seeds should be well cured and stored in such a manner they will keep in good condition.

Anyone who does not have the seed, which they are going to want for another spring's planting, should secure this seed or should make arrangements with other farmers to save it for them as early as possible, in order to make sure that it will not be fed out to stock.

Maine's exhibit in the department of state exhibits has been made for the Eastern States Exposition and Dairy Show, which will be held at Springfield, Mass., from Oct. 12 to 20. The information concerning it came from John A. Roberts, commissioner of agriculture. He said that the Governor, Carl E. Milliken, had not only authorized the department of agriculture to organize an exhibit, but had expressed the keenest interest in making the display representative of Maine's agriculture in the fullest sense.
